V.F.W. Mission Statement

The purpose of this corporation (VFW) shall be fraternal, patriotic, historical, charitable, and educational; to preserve and strengthen comradeship among its members; to assist worthy comrades; to perpetuate the memory and history of our dead, and to assist their widows and orphans; to maintain true allegiance to the Government of the United States of America, and fidelity to its institutions of American freedom, and to preserve and defend the United States from all her enemies, whomsoever.

Commander's Corner

As I assume the task of Commander of our Post, I realize that we will not be successful unless I receive a lot of help from ALL of you.

Thank you to Tony Halliday for stepping up to be our One Year Trustee. There two other appointed positions (Guard and Officer of the Day) we still need to fill. I will fill on a meeting by meeting basis until I find someone to fill them full time. These positions are not near as critical, as I can appoint someone each month for the length of the meeting.

Another area in need of help is with steak night. I told Joe that we would continue the tradition at least one more month. I am a poor outdoor grill cook, so if someone wants to take over Joe's job it will help the Post tremendously. If not I'll do it on July 21st and we'll see what the feedback is.

Another area needed more volunteers is bartending. We've had a few people that are no longer able to do the hours that they had previously. Please get with Leonard or a House Committee member if you have a bartending license or are willing to obtain one, we'll help you though it – No experience necessary – most of our bartenders are self taught. Volunteers are our life's blood. One night a month or more will help us out. . Please step up!

We are planning to be in the Bloomington Independence Day parade. The details are in flux, so check with a Post officer later and we should be able to bring you up to speed.

I am looking to start a read file that will be kept in the canteen area. It will contain information that Comrades and Auxiliary members need to know, but is so time sensitive that it can't be put in the newsletter. ❖

Commander – Roy Smith

VFW Auxiliary

We would like to thank all who attended our Memorial Day service and the dedication of the Veteran's Monument at Valhalla Memory Gardens. It was a good turnout. Joe Hardin did a FANTASTIC job along with his helpers – Thanks Joe. After the ceremonies, there was a huge crowd at the post, glad to see you there. Our cooks did a GREAT JOB as usual, not only with it tasting great; there was plenty to go around. If you left hungry, it was your fault, not theirs. Our thanks to the cooks!

Joe Hardin is stepping down as Post Commander for a well earned rest as he's been at it for 8 years – and an awesome job too I might add. Row Smith has assumed duties as Post Commander, so let's all get out to the post and help support him as it is not an easy job.

We will be serving brunch on the 4th of July this year, consisting of meat, scrambled eggs, cheesy hash brown casserole, biscuits, and gravy (for those who want it). Doesn't that sound GOOD? Oh, it's all for only $5.00. Then afterwards we'll have jumbo hot dogs, Duke baked beans, and Potato salad. This will include sides and desserts - also for the low price of just $5.00!!! So, come out and join us after the parade – it will be a fun day.

On our bulletin board, the chaplain has put an information sheet for those who've visited nursing homes, gone to funerals, memorials, ceremonies, or have sent out cards. She will turn this information in on her monthly report to national to let them know we have not forgotten.

Dates to remember for July;

July 4th – Brunch 11:30 – 2:00 / Hot Dog Special 2:00 until gone

July 18th – Auxiliary Meeting 6:00 PM

July 28th – Spaghetti Dinner with salad and garlic bread

God Bless our troops – God Bless America – Our get well wishes for those who are ill and our condolences go out to those who've lost a loved one. ❖

Independence Day

Independence Day is regarded as the birthday of the United States as a free and independent nation. Most Americans simply call it the "Fourth of July," on which date it always falls.

The holiday recalls the signing of the Declaration of Independence on July 4, 1776. At that time, the people of the 13 British colonies located along the eastern coast of what is now the United States were involved in a war over what they considered unjust treatment by the king and parliament in Britain. The war began in 1775. As the war continued, the colonists realized that they were fighting not just for better treatment; they were fighting for freedom from England's rule. The Declaration of Independence, signed by leaders from the colonies, stated this clearly, and for the first time in an official document the colonies were referred to as the United States of America. It is a day of picnics and patriotic parades, a night of concerts and fireworks. The flying of the American flag (which also occurs on Memorial Day and other holidays) is widespread.

Fireworks & Parades & Probably Hot Weather!!!

Tuesday July 4th, Independence Day, Parade Day, the Post will OPEN at 10:00 a.m. and the Auxiliary will be serving 2 Food Events--- starting off with a Brunch followed by Grilled Hot Dogs, so be sure to check out their article for extra details---and we heard that the cost for either event is---Just a mere $5.00.

Why Did You Join?

Why we each entered the military, the reason we joined, had an effect on several aspects of our service and often on our attitudes toward the VA after separation. Let's consider some reasons for entry and see what you think. You may recognize a few. Maybe you will recognize yours.

It's 5 March 1965, MCRD San Diego, eleven o'clock on the first night in Platoon 219. Lights out and no drills in the dark Quonset hut. Whereas we had not been able, physically or mentally, to converse as human beings while being harassed in Reception Barracks waiting for our platoon to form, suddenly we realized we were temporarily unsupervised and had forever, a little over six hours, before we heard the amplified hiss of a phonograph needle as it first touched the reveille record.

(Whispered) "Hey! Can anyone hear me?"

"I hear you. Shut up. I want do sleep."

"Fxxx you. I want to talk. (Hesitation) Why did you join?"

First one response, then another, then others. Several were followed by "You must be an idiot!" or "You gotta be shxxing me!" or similar helpful comments:

"The judge said it was either the Marines or jail. I've had enough of jail."

"Suzy was pregnant" and the related "I had to have money for child support."

"Dad [or other relative] was a Marine" and the inverse "Dad was in the [some branch other than the Marine Corps] and I wanted to do him one better."

"The babes go for the uniform. I'm getting dress blues and wear them back home when I get leave."

I just listened. There did not seem to be a why-you-joined category for "I stayed up late most nights my first semester at Indiana University, usually didn't get up until 11:00am, and had all morning classes." I could not speak French, so the Foreign Legion was out.

During the fun filled days, weeks, and months that followed some other reasons for joining became obvious, most unspoken. A few had joined to prove to themselves and others that they were tough, i.e., they doubted themselves. Some joined to show off. Some for security: food, shelter, and a little income - $78 per month. Some to help gain citizenship. Some joined because of patriotism. Two years later some entered because they had been drafted. Their reasons boiled down to service or prosecution. Maybe Canada was in there somewhere. But even those drafted formed attitudes toward their service, attitudes based on what they wanted to accomplish, what they thought they knew about the military, and – for more than a few during war time – what they feared.

Looking back, it seems those who joined for the more positive reasons had the best attitude toward filing for VA benefits; whether education, home loan, or disability compensation. Their expectations for success when they entered and faith in the overall fairness of the military carried over to their expectations for the VA. Sort of a series of self-fulfilling prophesies. (Before we go any further, let's stipulate the military and the VA do at times fail to adequately serve even the most positive members and claimants. Incompetent officers, non-veteran adjudicators, just bad luck, whatever. Courts martial, Captain's Mast, hardship discharges, and VA appeals can sometimes mitigate.) Contrast with those who entered the military with neutral or negative expectations who often do not apply for VA benefits when they should and have less success when they do. Unfortunately, negative "Why try?" expectations can become self-fulfilling as well. Claims aren't well prepared, claims are dropped and not pursued, denials are not appealed.

People change. The most patriotic, most optimistic can be beat down by horrible experiences to the point they do not want any contact with anything reminding them of the military, especially the VA. Alternatively, the most cynical and hopeless can be uplifted by those around them, especially a good NCO.

Why did you join? Did it affect your attitude toward VA benefits? ❖
