V.F.W. Mission Statement

The purpose of this corporation (VFW) shall be fraternal, patriotic, historical, charitable, and educational; to preserve and strengthen comradeship among its members; to assist worthy comrades; to perpetuate the memory and history of our dead, and to assist their widows and orphans; to maintain true allegiance to the Government of the United States of America, and fidelity to its institutions of American freedom, and to preserve and defend the United States from all her enemies, whomsoever.

Commander's Corner

Dear Comrades,

We have another successful month in the books. I wish to thank everyone who made it so.

The meals continue to be a great success. I want to give a special shout-out to Comrade (former Commander) Joe for his encore performance as steak chef.

We continue to get requests from several community groups for funding. If there are any groups that you feel are particularly deserving of funding please talk about with your Comrades. Also, attend the meeting so that your voice can be heard. Donations from the Post need to be the heartfelt expressions of the majority of the members. I don't want the perception to be that the officers are funding their pet projects.

Please continue to support the Post's patriotic efforts in the schools (Patriot's Pen, Voice of Democracy, and Teacher of the Year). There is nothing more motivating to a school than an involved parent or grandparent.

Again I want to reiterate this is your Post and all inputs are appreciated. ❖

Yours in true Comradeship

Commander – Roy Smith

Commander Smith receives Bloomington National Guard's "Certificate of Appreciation" presented to VFW Post 604 by SSGT Gill.

VFW Auxiliary

Here it is September already, time is flying by. The kids have all started back to school. As I remember it, when our kids were in school, it is a hectic time of the year. Between trying to find exactly what they wanted in school, clothes, shoes, and the list of supplies the school wanted you to get... there isn't much time to do much else. Now that the hard part is over, it's closer to a routine, which is really nice. With this new found spare time, come on out and enjoy the Post.

We are now collecting 2018 dues which are due by December 31st, 2017. Our Membership Chairperson, Karen Cain, will be sending out annual dues reminders in the next few weeks. Please watch out for them in the mail. Hey, in case you didn't know, this year you can go online to pay your dues. If you are interested, give Karen a call at 812-327-1944 and she'll lead you through it.

Our Auxiliary meetings are at 6:00PM on the 3rd Tuesday of each month. We are always looking for new ideas. Please bring yours and come to the meeting. They usually last less than an hour. It is important you keep your address up to date at the post. We currently have 10 members we have lost touch with. Newsletter returns cost money, but more importantly they're not getting it.

Post 604 is 100% staffed by volunteers. We certainly want you to enjoy the facility, but we would appreciate any offers of assistance. Our current member volunteers are over extended trying to do all of it. Runners on Thursdays supporting the kitchen during Texas Hold 'em from 6 – 8PM, or Friday with dining room support for the dinner specials, again 6-8PM. Every little bit helps. If you can spare a whole evening (4PM - 10PM) we could use help bartending. No experience necessary, just willingness to help out, we'll help you with your

How the VA Rates Hearing Loss

Reference: Title 38, United States Code applied in accordance with 38 Code of Federal Regulations, Sections 4.85 and 4.86.

When I started working for the VA in 1975 there were still several WWII veteran employees. They described the hearing loss test before the “beep-beep” (puretone threshold test) with which most of us are familiar. In the Olde Days, the doc tested the veteran’s hearing by whipping out his pocket watch and determining how far away the vet could no longer hear the ticking sound. No, I am not kidding. The actual distance standards are lost in the mists of time, but let’s say two feet might have been 10%. As these vets aged and their hearing deteriorated many filed for re-evaluation of their hearing loss. They discovered that initiating a re-evaluation can result in three things: a raise in the disability rating, the rating might not change, and the rating might be lowered. Guess what happened when the tick-tick ratings were re-evaluated under beep-beep standards. If less than twenty years old, most were lowered. (As long as fraud is not involved a VA disability rating percentage older than twenty years cannot be reduced. Also barring fraud, service connection itself cannot be taken away after ten years.) Example: Johnny Veteran’s WWII 10% rated hearing loss really was worse but standards had changed and was re-evaluated at 0%.

The VA currently rates hearing loss by first applying Table VI from §4.85 of the CFR which has “% of discrimination” (percent of the words repeated back to the examiner which are correct) on the vertical axis and “Puretone Threshold Average” (average of the beep-beep hearing losses measured in decibels at 1000, 2000, 3000, and 4000 Hertz) on the horizontal. Where the column and row cross provides a Roman numeral which is used in Table VII to find the actual disability percentage rating. If you look at Table VI it’s obvious that the middle three of the nine beep-beep columns (58-65, 66-73, and 74-81 decibel average loss) on the top row (92-100% accuracy at repeating the words) only give Roman numeral II. Eighty-one decibels is a profound hearing loss, but the top row of repeating accuracy is no lower than 92%. Some of you may remember Clarence Alexander, a WWII Navy veteran. Nearly as deaf as a post. This was his situation and his II for each ear from Table VI got him a 0% rating on Table VII, the actual percentage table. For Clarence to have repeated the words back at that high level of accuracy the examiner must have been shouting into the microphone and have spoken very clearly and had the volume turned way up. I was not too pleased with Clarence’s initial 0% VA rating.

If the examiner (VA medical center or contractor) certifies something’s screwy with the discrimination accuracy results, such as a language problem or inconsistent results, the rating specialist (regional office) will use Table VIa. Very simple table. Only uses puretone threshold average to get the Roman numeral. The middle three columns – 63-69, 70-76, and 77-83 decibels – translate to V, VI, and VII, respectively. If Johnny has a VI for each ear, Table VII translates to a disability rating of 30%. Now we’re getting realistic.

However, the rating specialist cannot use Table VIa instead of Table VI unless at least one of three criteria is met. We’ve already seen the first: the examiner’s certification of inability to get a valid discrimination score. The second and third are in §4.86 of the CFR. Paragraph (a) saved Clarence: “When the puretone threshold at each [emphasis added] of the four specified frequencies (1000, 2000, 3000, and 4000 Hertz) is 55 decibels or more, the rating specialist will determine the Roman numeral designation for hearing impairment from either Table VI or Table VIa, whichever results in the higher numeral.” Clarence’s hearing loss around 1000 was something like 65 decibels and the higher frequencies went up from there toward the “chainsaw at twelve inches” level. After we politely reminded the Indianapolis VA Regional Office of §4.86 (a) they revised his rating to 40%. Paragraph (b) is the third. It starts with, “When the puretone threshold is 30 decibels or less at 1000 Hertz, and 70 decibels or more at 2000 Hertz . . .” Restated, to use paragraph (b) to get to Table VIa, the veteran’s hearing must not be all that bad at 1000 Hertz and much more severe just one thousand Hertz higher at 2000 – a minimum difference of 40 decibels. I’ve never had a veteran get past the first part of Paragraph (b).

Trying to understand the “why” of §4.85 and §4.86 is hazardous to one’s sanity. The emphasis of Table VI on being able to hear and repeat words makes sense from impact on employment and quality of life standpoints – and both of those are bases for VA compensation. If a veteran can converse in an almost normal way despite really bad hearing maybe his or her rating percentage should be lower. Understanding voices is more important than listening to beep-beeps. But a nearly deaf person like Clarence should be rated higher than that indicated by just repeating words. OK, we’ve grasped those two concepts. However, what the heck is going on with §4.86 (b)? Is there audiology research that indicates such a dramatic difference is associated with problems understanding spoken words? Or did the guy who wrote §4.86 (b) have that big a difference in his hearing loss between 1000 and 2000 Hertz and he just slipped it in the reg for his own benefit?

You probably knew these trivia items already, but here they are again: Loud noises such as being near artillery, jet engines, small arms fire without adequate hearing protection, and etc. damage sensitivity to higher frequencies first and worst. Typical pattern for a veteran whose assigned weapon was a rifle is high frequency hearing loss lessening in severity at the lower frequencies and overall worse in the left ear compared to the right. The right ear was somewhat protected by the right of the shooter’s head being pressed against the rifle. .❖

On our tenderloin Sundays, most of the crowd have been coming in early, so we've been closing the kitchen at approximately 4PM. If you plan on coming, but aren't sure you'll be there by then, just give us a call and we'll get it for you. We have had some members arriving at 5PM and were disappointed. We surely do not want this to happen – please just give us a call. Thank you for your cooperation and consideration. Also, price of our tenderloin is now $6.00 due to increase in our costs. Still the same GREAT meal; sandwich, sides, desserts, so come on out and enjoy yourself. Some sides go fast, so you need to come early if you want the best deal.

September Dates to Remember;

September 17th – 10:30 AM – District Meeting - Odon.
September 17th – Noon till 6PM – Tenderloin Sunday
September 19th – Auxiliary Meeting 6:00 PM
